ICC approves rate increase on phone bills

by Douglas Backstrom

The Illinois Commerce Commission has approved a 29.4 percent increase in local residential rates for the Illinois Consolidated Telephone Co., an ICTC spokesman said Wednesday.

Area Service Manager Tom Cox said the new local exchange rates, which went into effect Sunday, will increase the average residential telephone bill by about 7 cents per day.

The changes will be reflected on the upcoming telephone bill, he said.

ICC Public Information Officer Margo Phillips said ICTC was granted the increase because "after 11 months of research it was apparent that more revenue was needed."

Cox said, "We needed more revenue to continue our operation and good service to residents."

Another reason for the increase was "the deregulation and state of the economy," he said.

ICTC's accounting department has been researching a rate increase since June 1982, he added.

Cox said the monthly increases for residential local exchange service range from $1.80 to $2.19, depending on the size of the community.

The following are increases in Charleston's and Mattoon's basic local service rates and extended area service rates.

Basic service for Charleston residents increased from $7.03 to $9.10, with area service raising from $1.07 to $1.10.

For Mattoon, the basic residential rate went from $7.46 to $9.65, while area service raised from $1.36 to $1.40.

In addition, Cox said other items of the ICC provisions include:

- an increase from 10 cents to 20 cents for a local call from coin telephones.
- an increase from 97 cents to $1.35 per month for a leased standard rotary dial telephone, including maintenance.
- an increase from $1.45 to $2.05 per month for a leased standard Touch Tone telephone, including maintenance.
- increases averaging about 38 percent on leased key telephone systems.
- an increase in the one-time initial service order charge for residential customers from $9.69 to $14.
- an increase in the one-time single line wiring connection charge for residential customers from $14.54 to $17.

Draft compliance extension given by Cathy Gregory

In response to requests for more time to comply with the recent draft registration requirement for federally-funded financial aid, the U.S. Department of Education has extended the Aug. 1 compliance deadline to Sept. 1.

Duncan Helmrich, public affairs specialist for the U.S. Department of Education, said Tuesday the deadline was extended by Secretary of Education T.H. Bell on July 14 because of the large number of requests received by students and financial aid offices.

"A number of students and financial aid offices complained that they needed more time to comply with the new regulation and the extra work it entails."

The original date for the compliance regulation of July 1 was set by Bell on Jan. 21. The regulation requires a statement of registration for the military draft from students seeking federally-funded financial aid.

An injunction was then issued by U.S. District Judge Donald Alsop on behalf of the Minnesota Civil Liberties Union, which questioned the constitutionality of the law on the basis of self-incrimination. On June 24 the Supreme Court put a stay on Alsop's injunction, making the law effective on July 1.

A 30-day grace period was later granted to help financial aid offices adjust to added workload of the new requirement, making Aug. 1 the deadline for compliance.

Helmrich explained that after Sept. 1, students who have applied for federally-funded financial aid will be required to sign a form of draft registration compliance.

Sue McKenna, executive director of financial aids at Eastern, said in anticipation of the Supreme Court ruling, Eastern's aid office has been requiring the compliance statements since July 1.

"We're not making any changes in this office because of the extension because we don't have to."

However, the compliance regulation does not require proof of draft registration. McKenna said the office only requires that a student sign the form saying that he has registered. "We don't require proof of registration."

She added that proof of registration will not be required of students until the 1985-86 award year.

Financial vice president has great interest in sports

by Douglas Backstrom

If someone were to walk into the office of Financial Vice President Gail Redeker, he would probably notice newspaper clippings of several winning basketball teams hanging on the wall.

Redeker, who is a St. Louis Cardinals fan, said she has been interested in sports ever since high school.

"I grew up in Belleville with Rusty Lisch, a member of the Cardinals," she said. "Rusty played football at Notre Dame, then he made the papers when he was drafted into the Cardinals. His sisters and I were good friends," she added.

Keith, Redeker's older brother, "was an inspiration in my life because of the way he treated me," she said. But his life was suddenly cut short when Keith was killed in a car accident, when Redeker was five.

"I can remember the day it happened. The police came to the door and told my mother that her 19-year-old son was dead. She was crying, and I was like, 'Hey, what's going on.'"

"I was the apple of his eye. Keith and my older sister Becky thought I was a brat," she said. "But I still loved them both."

"My mom tells me and my sister that she still has us, and that's good to hear," she said.

Redeker attended Eastern her freshman year but transferred to the University of Missouri the following year because Eastern did not have a nursing program. However, she was unhappy because she was unable to get on-campus housing at the University of Missouri.

"All freshman should live in dorms. That way they can meet more people," she said. Because Redeker did not live in a residence hall she said she did not have much of a social life until she became a Tiger Hostess for Missouri's wrestling team. "We did all sorts of P.R. and took people out to dinner for the team," she said.

Redeker said she had become involved with the Student Association at the Missouri, an organization similar to Student Senate at Eastern.

Financial problems arose when Redeker could not obtain state aid because she did not live in Missouri. Eventually, she dropped all her courses and returned to Eastern.

Once Redeker was an Eastern student again, she was appointed to the Council on Academic Affairs by former Student Body President Terry Teele.

Redeker became a member of Eastern's Student Senate when six senate members resigned because of low scholarship.

Redeker said she was disappointed that she did not have an opponent for the position of financial vice president. "I was real surprised."

CAA to discuss two course proposals, two revisions

by Denise Skowron

The Council on Academic Affairs Thursday will discuss and take action on two new course proposals and two course revisions, CAA Chairman David Buchanan said.

The first item to be discussed by the council concerns a proposal for a "special topic" course, Journalism 3950. Buchanan said the proposal is designed to allow the subject matter to vary from term to term.

One reason a department may propose a special topics course is that it may not be sufficiently staffed to teach a particular topic year after year, Buchanan said. With a special topic course, one teacher may teach in a specialized area one semester, and another teacher may, teach in a different area the next semester.

In addition, the CAA will consider one new course proposal and one course revision proposal from the mathematics department, Buchanan said.

Mathematics 4800 "Diagnosis Remediation and Technology in Teaching Mathematics K-6," is a new course proposed to update teaching majors on the latest concepts of teaching mathematics, he said.

A second proposal involves the revision of Mathematics 4820, "Algebra and Geometry for Elementary and Jr. High School Teachers."

Buchanan said the mathematics department has been restructuring lower level courses in teacher education in math and the revision will bring the higher level courses in line with the others.

The last proposal to be presented to the CAA will come from the School of Home Economics which has requested a change in credit hours for Home Economics 3190, "Human Nutrition and Food Study," Buchanan said.

The proposal asks that the course contain additional material and count for three credit hours instead of the current two. "The department wants to add material to help their students discriminate accurate and reliable information," he said.

Finally, the CAA will take action on a revision in the new course proposal format to explain more clearly how to go about proposing a new course. "All we're trying to do is clarify," he said.

Ribbon-cutting ceremony to kick off fair

by Sharon Bray

The Coles County Fair will open its 129th consecutive year with a ribbon-cutting ceremony Sunday.

Delmar Baldwin, fair president, said the Coles County Fair is the oldest continuous fair in Illinois. The fair began around 1848, ran for a couple of years then started up again in 1854. The fair has been annual event since 1854.

Baldwin said Wednesday that the fair will open with the ceremony at noon.

However, Baldwin said the Shriner's Parade scheduled to take place after the ceremony has been canceled because the group is unable to participate in the fair.

Also on Sunday will be a country and western show featuring the Thrasher Brothers and the Kingsmen, he said.

Tickets for the Sunday evening show are $4 for box seats and $3 for general admission, Baldwin added.

In addition to the carnival and mid-way events, one highlight of the fair is the queen pageant at 8 p.m. Wednesday, he said. The new queen will be crowned by 1982 Miss Coles County Fair and Eastern senior Amy Bardis.

A new event for the fair is mud wrestling, Baldwin said. He added that some "local talent" will be included among the wrestlers.

Friday's tractor pull, which begins at 6:30 p.m., is always a big draw for the fair, Baldwin said.

In addition to Friday's tractor pull, Baldwin said there will also be two

TAC to host 'Fantasticks' production

The Charleston Community Theater Company's production of the musical "Fantasticks" will begin Thursday at the Tarble Arts Center, TAC Curator Mark Alexander said Wednesday.

"Fantasticks," a "boy meets girl" love story, is the one of the longest running musicals on Broadway, Alexander said. The play premiered on Broadway in 1966.

Eastern graduate student Jayne Ball is serving as the community theater production's director.

The curtain will open for "Fantasticks" at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday at the TAC.

Tickets for the play are $3.50 and will be on sale at the door.

Students should take new grade policy seriously

Although college students should always be concerned about their class work, a new probation policy recently implemented at Eastern makes satisfactory academic achievement and close attention to course progress imperative.

Both the old and new probation policies state that any student whose cumulative grade point average falls below 2.0 loses good academic standing and is placed on probation. However, for the new policy a graduated scale was established so the farther a student's GPA falls, the higher the GPA he must achieve the next semester.

Previously, students who opted to slack off in their courses for a semester were cushioned by the knowledge that they would be placed on probation before they would be dismissed from Eastern.

Following this summer's implementation of the new probation policy, it is quite possible to be dismissed from Eastern without ever having been on probation.

Under the current policy, for example, if a student began a semester with a cumulative grade point average between a 1.60 and 1.99 he is required to achieve a GPA of 2.10 during that semester.

Editorial

And if a student began a semester in good academic standing but brought his cumulative GPA below 2.00 by getting all F grades that term, he would be dismissed without ever having been on probation.

After performing studies on how many students will be affected by the new policy, Eastern's Registrar James Martin has estimated that 57 percent more students would have been dismissed last fall if the new probation policy had been implemented at that time.

Because fear of being forced out of college is not—to say the least—a comforting idea, students now have even greater incentive to put pressure on themselves to succeed academically.

Although summer may seem to be a time to relax, grades achieved during the summer session are averaged into students' cumulative grade point averages and will be a determining factor in the success of their future collegiate careers.

Two weeks of the summer term are still ahead—two weeks that should be used to your greatest advantage. It is important to remember that you have the opportunity to determine what your final summer term grades will be.

As the time for turning in final assignments and taking final exams draws near, remember that a solid GPA from the summer term offers a strong basis for security during the fall and spring semesters.

A few extra hours of studying can make the difference between an A or B, or a D or an F. Under the new probation policy, an F can determine whether you will leave Eastern earlier than planned.

The implementation of the new probation policy and summer class work should be taken seriously—now. Taking class work lightly now might mean you will have to take flunking out of school seriously later.

BOG funding inequities must stop

Everyone thrives on attention, and public university programs literally thrive on financial attention from bodies such as the Board of Governors.

Therefore, inequities in the distribution of BOG funds can have adverse effects on the quality of education at BOG schools.

In the past, BOG funds have not been equitably distributed between the five BOG schools.

For years Eastern has requested greater financial support from the BOG and received little, while other universities enjoyed generous program support.

This trend was recently reversed when the BOG decided to allocate $360,000, the largest portion of their fiscal year 1984 program budget, to Eastern.

But if Eastern is receiving such a great portion of the BOG's funds, other universities must be receiving much less. The cycle of feast or famine funding continues.

Editorial

The BOG allocated the $360,000 to Eastern because the university has been grossly underfunded and ignored by the BOG. Acting Eastern President Stanley Rives said, "Eastern has always been underfunded and we're just trying to play some catch-up."

If the BOG had been properly allocating program funds all along they would not need to be "playing catch-up." And although Eastern does deserve and is probably very grateful for more funding, the catch-up game must be stopped somewhere.

While Eastern can now stop tugging at the BOG's elbow, the board must not be insensitive to potential funding inequities in the future. The BOG should take preventive measures so that similar gross inequities, to any BOG school, do not occur.

Letter policy

The name and phone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor. Letters submitted without a name (or with a pseudonym) or without a phone number or other means of verifying authorships will not be published.

Names will be withheld on request.

Letters should be typewritten and should not exceed 250 words. Letters which exceed the 250-word limit will be edited to fit with the writer's permission. Please try to hold letters to the limit before submitting them. Handwritten letters will be accepted but must be legible.

Alumnus wills stock shares to Eastern

by Denise Skowron

"She always wanted to see young folks get started in life," 80-year-old Lorene Cantrell of Charleston said.

Cantrell had nothing but kind words to describe LuLu Craig Collier, an alumnus who left 4,600 shares of stock valued at $155,000 to Eastern upon her death in 1980. "I was not at all surprised," she added.

Cantrell's will specified money from the stock be used "to provide scholarships or books, tuition and fees, for students from Coles County who have graduated from any of the public high schools in the county."

It was unclear in the will, however, whether the stock could be sold, but recent Board of Governors action has permitted the university to sell the stock.

Cantrell said Collier, who lived to be 91, was very community-minded and interested in education, "She thought it was so important."

"LuLu was a lovely person," Cantrell said. "Her mother and my grandmother were sisters, so my mother and she were cousins." She had a fondness of children, but had only one of her own who died at birth, she added.

Collier graduated in 1904 from Eastern, then called the Eastern Illinois State Teacher's College. After her first elementary-level teaching job in Tuscola, Collier taught in Pasadena, Ca., and later moved to St. Petersburg, Fla., where she remained until her death at the age of 91.

Cantrell said Collier had a great appreciation for antiques. "Goblets were her main thing, she began collecting when she was five. You could never get too far when you went for a drive with her," Cantrell added. "She'd always have to stop for antiques."

Although she had a wonderful wit, Cantrell said Collier was very reserved. "You never knew what she was going to say or what she was going to do."

Cantrell said Collier wanted to help local children get ahead. "I just hope they live up to her dreams and use it to their advantage."

Self-sufficient Americans focus of Glenn campaign

by Sharon Bray

In his quest for the presidency in 1984, democratic candidate U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, stresses the importance of a united and independent country, a campaigner said Wednesday.

Elliott Jacobson, Glenn's Illinois campaign coordinator, told a group at the Charleston Holiday Inn Wednesday morning, "John Glenn is the type of candidate who can bring America together again."

Glenn believes Americans should learn to work together to be self-sufficient, so more Americans can be put back to work, Jacobson said.

"There is chronic unemployment all over the nation. John Glenn has been committed to the regeneration of the smoke stack industry," Jacobson said.

The smoke stack industry is important not only for employment reasons but also for the national defense, he said.

Jacobson said Glenn believes there should be a partnership in the country between industry and the government.

"There needs to be a partnership between the federal government, business and labor. We can no longer operate in an adversary relationship," he said.

Jacobson said Glenn will also work hard toward peace and a nuclear freeze.

"No one in this country will fight for peace harder than Glenn," he said.

Jacobson cited examples of Glenn's extensive military career. He said Glenn spent 23 years in the military, fought in two wars and walked on the moon.

Glenn believes there is too much waste in the country's military budget and that increased funding for defense should be used specifically for defense, Jacobson said.

Glenn also supports the SALT II treaty, Jacobson said. He added that, if elected, Glenn will negotiate harder for a mutual and verifiable nuclear freeze.

"Glenn says he would rather fight on the table than the battlefield," Jacobson said.

However, Jacobson said Glenn does not believe in diplomacy that forces the United States to use products and become dependent on exports.

"Our foreign policy needs to be changed because there are no permanent friends or foes in foreign relations," Jacobson said.

"We have to change so we can be self-sufficient and not depend on another country for our well-being," he added.

Jacobson said the education program must be set up so the money put into education "transfers itself into productivity" for the next generation to learn to be self-sufficient.

Glenn believes there are too many frills in education, he added.

"Everybody talks about how much money needs to be put into the educational system. But there are things we can do that don't cost money—education starts in the home," he said.

The education system "has to be returned to a core curriculum," he said.

"The Japanese are made fun of because their curriculum is much tougher than ours. But they have people leaving the high school level and going into industry—something Americans can't do until they're out of college," he said.

FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE Eight-Week Summer Term 1983

	Monday August 8	Tuesday August 9	Wednesday August 10
30-0930	T-1030	M-0900, M-0940	M-1200
00-1200	M-0800	T-0730	M-1330, M-1340
00-1500	M-1030	M-0730	Makeup or Arranged
00-2100	M-1900	T-1900	—

Final examinations are scheduled on the basis of the first class hour meeting of the week irrespective of whether the first class is classroom or laboratory activity.

Final examinations for multiple-hour classes are scheduled on the basis of the first hour of the multiple-hour block.

A M- or T- prefix indicates whether the first class day of the week is Monday or Tuesday. For instance, M-0800 indicates the scheduled time for the final examination in a course having its first class-hour meeting of the week at 0800 on Monday, T-1030 is for a class having its first class-hour meeting of the week at 1030 on Tuesday, etc.

4. Final examination periods indicated in the above schedule as "Makeup or Arranged" are to be used only in cases where:

a. The first class hour meeting of the week does not conform to the schedule patterns established herein.

b. The meeting of the class appears in the Summer Term Class Schedule as "ARR."

c. The student presents an approved examination change request.

5. Final examinations for one semester hour courses may be given at the discretion of the instructor and, if given, should be scheduled for the last regular class meeting of the term.

6. Final examinations for courses numbered 4750 or above may be given at the discretion of the instructor and, if given, are to conform to the schedule patterns established herein.

7. Final examinations for intercession and five-week session courses should be scheduled for the regular class meeting time on the examination day stipulated in the Summer Term 1983 calendar.

8. Final examinations are to be given in all courses unless specifically exempted under the provisions of #5 and/or #6 above or by departmental recommendation to, and approved by, the Council on Academic Affairs.

9. Students may not deviate from the published final examination schedule written approval of the Dean, Student Academic Services.

10. Instructors may not deviate from the published final examination schedule without written approval of the department chairperson and Dean of the School or College according to guidelines established by the Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Samuel J. Taber, Dean
Student Academic Services

Final Exam Changes

Students who have three final examinations scheduled for one day may fill out a request for a change in the office of the Dean, Student Academic Services, Main 116. Forms for requesting a change are now available and must be submitted no later than Wednesday, August 3, 1983. Students are discouraged from requesting instructors to deviate from the published examination schedule. Reasons of personal convenience such as work, transportation arrangements or vacation plans, do not constitute ground for approval of examination changes.

Gabriel 'Plays Live' good but not essential

PLAYS LIVE Peter Gabriel

Live albums are notorious for being little more than re-reads of "greatest hits" played in front of screaming hordes. In the case of Peter Gabriel, there aren't too many "hits" to play. Unfortunately, most of the songs on Plays Live aren't all that different from the originals. Fortunately, Gabriel's music is already extraordinary.

Plays Live completely ignores Gabriel's work with Genesis, and touches only lightly on his first two solo albums. Instead, the bulk of the set comes from his self-titled third album and last year's incredible release, Security. It's hard to argue with the song selections on this album, although it's odd that "Games Without Frontiers" and "Lay Your Hands on Me" are missing.

Gabriel ("Gabby" to his friends) has surrounded himself with some of the best musicians contained in a backing group. They are all innovative in their own way, and that is one of the pleasures of Plays Live.

Gabriel himself isn't much on between song chit-chat; instead, he allows the songs to speak for themselves. The album opens with Security's ominous "The Rhythm of the Heat." The song retains its minimalist form live, with its sparse drum and keyboard touches. The only drawback is that, although he gives it his best, drummer Jerry Marotta is no match for the Ekome Dance Company.

"I Have the Touch" weighs in more strongly, with synthesist Larry Fast, bass player Tony Levin, and Marotta playing off each other to the point of perfection. Gabriel's voice is exuberant here, displaying his impressive vocal range almost off-handedly.

"The Family and the Fishing Net," Security's murkiest number, sounds appropriately dense here. Levin's virtuosity at the stick (a variation on the bass) is proven convincingly. The song is hurt by the background vocalists, however; they're alternately hard to hear or tired-sounding.

"Intruder," from the third album, thunders along wholeheartedly. Dominated by Marotta's drum riff, the song is buoyed up by Gabriel's passionate vocals and his keyboard interplay with Fast. Levin's bass is more felt than heard, a difficult thing to accomplish in a live setting.

"I Go Swimming," the only previously unreleased song on Plays Live, is an out-and-out rocker. Led by a lightning run up and down the bass neck by Levin, the rest of the band kicks in with a vengeance. The song builds to a heart-stopping climax, with Gabriel and the band chanting "Swimming in water" until an abrupt finish.

"No Self Control" is significantly slowed down from its original version. The result is a more personal and plaintive reading by Gabriel.

"Shock the Monkey" receives fantastic treatment. Led by Levin's stick-slapping antics and the interplay between Fast's synthesizer and David Rhodes' guitar fills, the number simply sizzles. The song is extended by the crowd's joyous singing along, which Gabriel freely encourages. This is what live albums are supposed to be about: excitement shared between the audience and the performers. Too bad the whole album isn't on this level.

The quietly powerful "Biko" concludes the album. Gabriel's voice is both strong and poignant on this number, and the understated simplicity of the song's arrangement lends to its majesty.

This album was recorded last year in the American midwest, including Illinois State University. The crowds are usually quite well-behaved, although there are the occasional few who think they're at a Police concert and believe they must scream or whistle to fill a quiet spot in a song.

Plays Live, although it does contain some bright spots, ultimately winds up as something for the Peter Gabriel fan only. But it still beats to hell whatever this week's "Fibix Pix" is.

Hart adjusting to new role as 'senior player'

by Kathy Leahy

St. Louis Cardinal veteran quarterback Jim Hart, 39, doesn't mind being one of the oldest active players in the National Football League.

In fact, Hart, in his 18th season in the NFL, is proud of his new role as a "senior player."

"I'm kind of proud to be one of the oldest active players," Hart said. "It's kind of neat."

"The funny thing about it is that I really don't feel like I am old at all," he added. "As a matter of fact I consider myself still to be very young."

Hart has been playing in the National Football League since 1966, but he said that when he signed with the Cardinals many people believed his chances of making the team were slim.

"I was signed as a free agent and the odds of making the team were against me," Hart said. "But with a lot of luck and prayers I have made it."

During his illustrious 18 years in the NFL, Hart has garnered many honors.

He was a Pro Bowl selection in 1974 through 1977 and was the team's Most Valuable Player in 1973, 1975 and 1978.

In addition, Hart was named National Football Conference Player the Year in 1974.

Hart is one of only nine quarterbacks in the NFL to have thrown more than 200 touchdown passes (205) and is third in the NFL in completions with 2,540.

Hart became the starting quarterback in 1967 after Charley Johnson was called into the Army, and has since developed into one of the premier quarterbacks in the NFL.

"I, along with a lot of other people, am very surprised that I have done so well and have lasted so long," Hart said.

"But God is working in my life and he's got a plan for me," he added.

Hart, who was the Cardinals' starting quarterback for 15 seasons, has had to adjust to a new role at camp this season—that of backup quarterback.

Hart lost the starting position to Neil Lomax last season.

"I'm not starting and it's different not starting,"

Hart said. "When we're in training camp, I feel as if I'm on the outside sometimes. It's difficult to swallow."

However, Hart said, "Once the season starts and I get the opportunity to do my thing, the feeling of being on the outside tends to subside."

Since losing his job as the Cardinals' starting quarterback, Hart has taken on the role of an adviser to some of the younger players on the team.

"I advise in a subtle way. I help with the fundamentals, but I am really not in a place to go around offering information or advice," Hart said. "Especially since a lot of the things we're doing are new to me."

"We have coaches for everything, and it is there place to train and give advice," he added.

In his spare time, Hart works with many charities in the St. Louis area, including the St. Louis Heart Association and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

"I like to help people," Hart said. "The Heart Association is kind of a personal thing though, since heart disease runs in my family."

"I also love working with young people, such as the Christian Athletes," he said. "I think young people have more to share."

Hart said he is looking forward to his 18th season with the Cardinals and believes the team has "a very good chance" of making the playoffs.

"We are a young team, but we have recruited some good defensive players, which will help," Hart said. "As long as we sustain our offense, we will have a good shot at making the playoffs."

Hart said he has no plans of retiring in the near future.

"I reevaluate my position every year," Hart said. "I love to play football and I want to play football so I'm not going to quit."

Intramurals close regular season

by Gary Bray

The regular summer intramural season came to a close Wednesday night with some surprising results.

In men's softball competition, the Huns captured the division title with a flurry of victories.

The Huns played four games in the last two nights of action and won them all, giving them an 8-2 record.

PUPP was the first opponent for the Huns, but the Huns came out on top 10-2 Monday. The Big Sticks also fell to the Huns Monday by a score of 12-2.

The Huns made it a clean sweep Tuesday when they defeated the former number one team, the Jaggs, by a 12-2 score and then beat Joint Effort 13-3 in a make-up game.

The Jaggs also finished with an 8-2 record, but lost the division title in the head-to-head battle with the Huns. The Jaggs defeated Joint Effort 9-0 Monday for their final win.

Third place went to Mu Ling's Riceballs, with a 7-3 record.

The Riceballs won their final games of the year, beating the Housing Staff Infection 14-11 and PUPP 15-4.

Fourth place belongs to the Gee Spotters, also 7-3. They finished behind the Riceballs because of a July 11 loss to the Riceballs.

The Gee Spotters won their last two games, defeating the Untouchables 15-12 and the Housing Staff Infection 8-4.

The Housing Staff Infection fell all the way to fifth place with losses to the Gee Spotters and the Riceballs.

The Infection finished with a 6-4 record, placing above the Untouchables because of a June 28 win over the Untouchables.

In other action this week, the Phi Sigs finished at the .500 mark by winning their last game 6-4 over LAGNAF.

The Big Sticks ended their season 4-6 with a 12-9 win over Joint Effort.

Joint Effort and PUPP each finished with 2-8 records, with PUPP winning the head-to-head matchup July 19 by a score of 15-9.

Finally, LAGNAF was the only winless team in the division, going 0-10 for the year.

Co-Rec Volleyball

The Phi Sigs were crowned champions Tuesday night following their win over the Pace Setters, 15-5, 15-6.

The Phi Sigs also beat the Oblate Spheriods, 15-7, 15-1, and finished the season at 4-0.

Three teams finished in a second-place tie.

The Unknowns I, Oblate Spheriods and Pace Setters all finished with 2-2 records.

The Unknown II forfeited all their contest, placing them last in the league with a 0-4 record.

Men's Basketball

In Tuesday's action, the Phi Sigs forfeited their game against Bad Company, dropping their record to 1-6.

The win boosts Bad Company's record to 7-0 and gives them the league crown.

In last Wednesday's action, the G Force defeated Fast Break 44-41.

However, the remaining two league games were forfeited.

Adam's Rib gained a win via forfeit over the Phi Sigs and Bad Company was declared the winner over the Jaggs.

In other action Tuesday, the G Force was victorious, beating the Nupes 51-45.

The win pushes the G Force's record to 5-1.

Fast Break now stands at 4-2 after defeating the Sixty-Niners 84-38.

Wednesday night was scheduled to be the last night of competition, with three games set to be played.

The second-place G Force was scheduled to meet the winless Jaggs.

Fast Break, currently in third place, will meet Adam's Rib, 3-3.

Also scheduled is a game between the Nupes, 3-3, and the Sixty-Niners, 2-4.

Co-Rec Softball

In last Wednesday's action, the Hosers won twice, pushing their record to 3-0.

The Hosers beat the Rowdies 5-2 and defeated the Summer Conference Staff 10-5.

The Rowdies are 1-2 in the league, while the Conference Staff stands at 0-2.

Junior suspended for cocaine usage

by Gary Bray

St. Louis Cardinals' linebacker E.J. Junior was one of four National Football League players recently suspended for violations of league drug policies.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle issued a statement Monday reprimanding Junior, New Orleans safety Greg Stenrick, Cincinnati defensive end Ross Browner and running back Pete Johnson for their illegal use of cocaine.

Each player was suspended without pay for the remainder of their training camps through first four games of the 1983 season.

Junior reacted to the suspension by saying, "the commissioner made a decision in the best interests of the fans and the NFL. I accept that decision and look forward to returning to the football Cardinals."

Rozelle stated that none of the players will be allowed to attend training camp, practice sessions, meetings or use club facilities during the suspension.

Junior and Stenrick were arrested and convicted of a felony offense earlier this year. Rozelle said that both received probation for their offenses.

In recent federal court testimony, Browner and Johnson both admitted that they have purchased cocaine many times, Rozelle said.

Rozelle said, "Involvement with illegal drugs poses numerous risks to the integrity of professional football and the public's confidence in it."

"Every player agrees by his employment contract not to engage in activities detrimental to the sport," he added.

William Bidwell, Cardinals chairman of the board, issued a statement following Junior's suspension. In his statement, Bidwell said, "We still continue to be supportive of E.J. Junior in his program and look forward to his return to full-time activity."
